Fennemore Craig Expands Denver Office With the Addition of Three Attorneys

DENVER, CO - Fennemore Craig, a leading Mountain West law firm, announced Kelly Adams, Dara Keller and Ron Opsahl have joined the firm's Denver office.

"The firm continuously seeks to add exceptional lawyers to enhance the services we provide to our clients," said Troy Rackham, managing partner of Fennemore Craig's Denver office. "We know that their energy and dedication will be a great benefit to our clients."

Adams focuses her practice in the areas of healthcare litigation and regulation and healthcare real estate. While in law school, she worked at Children's Hospital Colorado and Centura Health and also served as a legal intern for the Colorado Attorney General's Office and the Denver District Attorney's Office. Adams earned her J.D. from the University of Colorado Law School with a Health and Law Policy Certificate and her B.A. from Kenyon College with honors.

Keller practices in health care litigation and regulation. Prior to joining the firm, she served as an attorney with the U.S. International Trade Commission where she practiced commercial and intellectual property litigation with USITC Administrative Law Judges. Keller earned her J.D. from Boson University School of Law and her B.A. from Indiana University with highest distinction.

Opsahl is a member of the firm's natural resources, energy and environmental practice and has experience public lands issues, wildlife law, resource extraction and use, litigation, real property, and titles matters. Prior to practicing law, he was a wildlife biologist, where he conducted ecological research on freshwater fish, large game mammals, and arctic waterfowl and shorebirds in Alaska, Colorado, and Oregon. Opsahl earned his LL.M. from the University of Denver, his J.D. from Lewis and Clark College and his B.S. from Colorado State University.
