

ALEXANDER "MASON" FAGOTTI

Alexander "Mason" Fagotti is an associate at in the firm's Business Litigation group who focuses his practice on construction litigation. Mason brings a unique blend of experience in the construction and legal fields. Raised in Arizona, Mason's father was a contractor, and Mason worked as a full-time block mason in Phoenix which allowed him to support himself throughout his academic journey, a full-time pursuit of two Bachelor's degrees and an Associate degree within four years.

Mason earned his J.D. from Vermont Law School, along with a Master of Environmental Law and Policy. While in law school, he concentrated on water law, was an Environmental Law Society Senator, and served on the Vermont Law Review. Additionally, he worked as a student clinician for the Vermont Environmental Advocacy Clinic. He earned his undergraduate degrees in business law and philosophy from the W. P. Carey School of Business at Arizona State University.

Prior to joining Fennemore, Mason served as a judicial law clerk for the Honorable Judges Brown and Williams, in the Arizona Court of Appeals, Division 1. He drafted legal opinions, attended court sessions, and conducted in-depth legal research. Mason's legal skills in combination with his love for the outdoors and environmental stewardship, make him a well-rounded and committed attorney ready to make a meaningful impact.
